Officers, citizens honoured at OPP ceremony

An Ontario Provincial Police officer from the Minden Detachment received an award of bravery and a second officer and a group of four civilians were presented with Commissioner's Citation Thursday night in Peterborough.

Provincial Constable Mark Davis, received the OPP Award for Bravery for his actions when he saved the life of John (J.O.) Jackson. The citation accompanying his award for bravery reads:

"On July 22, 1993, John Jackson was backing his car out of a driveway at a Minden residence when he lost consciousness. The vehicle continued across the roadway and plunged into the Gull River. Constable Davis, who was off-duty, witnessed the accident. As the vehicle started to submerge, with Mr. Jackson trapped inside, Constable Davis dove into the fast-flowing water. He quickly managed to open the car door, which was approximately two metres under water, and pull Mr. Jackson to Safety."

Senior Constable Ron Buchanan and four citizens from the Haliburton Village area received a Commissioner's Citation. Included in the citation were Susan Brindle of Gooderhan, Jeremy MacDuff, Liana MacDuff and Lester Pockett, all of Haliburton. The citation reads:

"On March 19, 1993, a car, travelling uphill on Highway 121 at Dover's Hill, hit a patch of ice and slid into the path of an oncoming transport truck. The car burst into flames, trapping the driver inside. Ms. Brindle, Mrs. MacDuff and her son Jeremy witnessed the collision and immediately responded. Ms. Brindle requested another motorist call for help and then went to retrieve her first aid kit in anticipation of the victim's rescue. As Mrs. MacDuff and David Claus, the truck driver, attempted to remove the other driver from her burning vehicle, Mr. MacDuff tried to smother the blaze by throwing snow on the car. Mrs. MacDuff was able to reach through the broken window and release the victim's seat belt. Realizing that the woman could not be removed from the vehicle, Mrs. MacDuff stayed with her, providing comfort, until her own hair and coat caught fire and she was forced to retreat.

"When Constable Buchanan arrived shortly after the collision, he ordered everyone away from the car, fearing an explosion. He entered the burning, smoke-filled vehicle and tried to remove the driver. He was forced to abandon his efforts when the intensity of the fire increased. Despite the rescuers valiant efforts to put out the fire, by emptying two fire extinguishers and shovelling snow onto the blaze, the car was engulfed in flames by the time the fire department arrived a short time later.

"After the fire was extinguished, firemen used the jaws of life to remove the victim. However she had not survived the ordeal. Meanwhile, Mr. Pockett, having learned about the accident, and on his own initiative, directed traffic away from the scene. He stayed approximately five and half hours until the investigation was completed. As a result of his assistance, the investigation was completed unhampered by traffic flow and without the need for additional officers."

The rescuers were thanked by the victim's daughter. She presented each with a bouquet of roses.

"It's kind of embarrassing in a way. I didn't do anything that anyone else would not have done," commented Buchanan.

Long service awards were also presented at the same ceremony. Officers from the Minden detachment receiving pins included Senior Constable Ken Wesley, 25 years, and Sergeant Art Gord, 20 years.

Commissioner T.B. Grady present Constable Mark Davis of the Minden Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police with his Award for Bravery at ceremonies held Thursday in Peterborough.

Consolidation of acute care services confirmed

Acute care services in Haliburton County must be consolidated in one location.

That was the message the Acting Health services Board heard from David Thomas, a spokesman for the Ministry of Health. Thomas had been invited to the meeting to clarify the ministry's response last December to recommendations contained in a report prepared by the Planning and Development Committee.

"It's a given," the planner from Toronto said emphatically, as he outlined the background leading up to the announcement and the expectation surrounding the future actions of the board.

The announcement confirms what many knew, but some wanted to believe could be changed. The services provided in the acute care beds at either Minden or Haliburton will have to be moved to the other community. (Acute care services generally refer to medical services provided to patients occupying beds in a hospital. The services available vary depending on the expertise of the medical staff and the equipment available at the hospital.) Thomas stressed that consolidating acute care inpatient services in one location did not mean that ambulatory and emergency services would necessarily be consolidated in one location as well or that they need to be attached to the single inpatient service site.

It was pointed out that the first difficult decision facing the new board will be what services will be offered in which location.

The clarification from Thomas was accompanied by a number of other "givens". He said the ministry is committed to the construction of a 30 Long Term Care Bed (LTC) facility in Haliburton, the upgrading of Hyland Crest, the decommissioning of the present Minden hospital site and that any new configuration of health services within the service area be provided under the current operating budget.

Thomas said the decision facing the board is whether the 19 bed acute care hospital would be located at the Haliburton site adjacent to Hyland Crest in Minden.

"We are asking you to develop a 'system' of health care that will serve the people of your community. The decisions you make should not be made in isolation from an over-all plan for the future of health care in the service area," he told the meeting. "What is important in your deliberations is not so much the 'beds' but the services that are offered throughout the area. The health system

Council apologizes over sign

The council of Anson, Hindon and Minden has admitted making a mistake and has apologized to Re/Max representatives Linda Beachli and Robert Heinze.

Beachli complained to council that the Re/Max sign that was placed on property owned by Dollo's IGA had been taken down without any notice of the municipality's intentions.

Council felt justified in removing the sign, which was on Municipal property, in front of Countrywide Haliburton Realty Ltd.

"I feel I've been unfairly treated," Beachli said.

Reeve Bern Berry said he felt it was inappropriate for one company to put a sign up in front of a competitor's business.

"We handled it poorly," he admitted.

Public Works Superintendent Clayton Cameron had written a letter to Re/Max representatives stating that he had no objection to the sign as long as Re/Max had permission from the IGA to put the sign up on its property.

"The man who sent the letter made a mistake," Berry said. "We corrected that mistake. Council has the right to do that."

Beachli admitted that she could see that there may be some concern about a Re/Max sign in front of a competitor's office, but she said: "I'm really upset with the underhanded way it was handled."

She accused council of bowing to the wishes of the Countrywide people.

"Countrywide complained and the Re/Max sign was gone like that," Heinze interjected, snapping his fingers.

"I just want the rules to be the same for everybody," Beachli said.

Councillor Jeanne Anthon suggested that a post be erected at the corner and that any business have the opportunity to rent its own fingerboard pointing in the direction of its respective establishment.

Beachli also said that she had asked at the municipal office about putting a sign on the roof of the Re/Max building and she understood that such a sign would not be permitted.

Berry said that he would have that checked into.

As it turns out, the municipality has no regulations prohibiting such a sign on the roof. But, since the building is so close to Highway 35, it is within the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Transportation and approval must be obtained from the ministry for a roof sign.

Berry agreed to send an official letter of apology if that would make Beachli happy.

The matter will be discussed further at the next Roads meeting.

Correction

The article regarding Stanhope Township's plans for its share of county infrastructure funds erroneously reported that work to the West portion of the North Shore Road would cost $270,000. That figure should have read $27,000.

Acting health services board meets bi-weekly

As a result of an area-wide call for interested individuals to form the basis of this newly-formed board, the following individuals were appointed by the former Haliburton County Planning and Development Committee to the Acting Health Services Board for Haliburton County and area on March 22:

Stuart Baker - Chair, Doug Campbell, Barbara Dawson, Joyce Gostock, Paul Heffer - Vice-Chair, Rheta Jones, Dwaine Lloyd, Lisa Mercer, Gordon Monk, Hugh Nichol, Ted Wilkes, Ken Wilson, and Barbara Wright.

The acting board serves the County of Haliburton, as well as northern Peterborough and northern Victoria counties. Responsibilities include developing a new model/system of health service delivery for the area, as well as governance of the Haliburton County and catchment area health system, including the two county hospitals. The acting board will also be pursuing the goals, objectives, and legal obligations to becoming incorporated. Further expansion of responsibilities to include other facilities and services is possible in the future.

Support staff from the Haliburton, Kawartha, and Pine Ridge District Health Council and the Ministry of Health including the Peterborough office of Long Term Care Division, are available to assist the acting board in defining its role and responsibilities.

Meetings of the acting board are open to the general public. They will take place every second Wednesday and every fourth Thursday of the month until further notice.

Time will be allotted at the end of each meeting for public participation. Individuals/groups interested in sharing their opinions/concerns with this committee in the form of a presentation, please contact Kate Reed, Interim Support Staff, at 286-3892.

Lola Prentice marks 90

Lola Prentice has reached a milestone. The long-time Minden resident celebrated her 90th birthday on June 11 at Hyland Crest.

At the age of 18 Lola Cheney came to Minden to teach. She taught at the Eagle Lake School and the old school on Highway 121 south, toward Kinmount.

Lola Cheney married Morgan Lee Prentice in 1927. They had two sons Bill and Jack. Jack died in 1959, at the age of 20.

During the 1930s, Lola Prentice was a switchboard operator.

The Prentice family moved to Prentuskoka (which is now known as Pine Springs) in 1936, where Morgan Prentice started a trucking business, transporting lumber from the sawmill there to Toronto. Lola operated a tourist resort, which included a camp, post office, store and gas station. She oversaw the operation of the resort since Morgan was away trucking much of the time.

During her stay in Prentuskoka, Lola also found time to be a midwife.

In 1946 The Prentices moved back to Minden and established a road excavation business, which became a limited company in 1955. It was called Prentice Roads and Excavating Ltd.

Prentice Roads was a major employer in the area for many years and Lola played a key role in the company as bookkeeper and partner.

Past employees of that company have a very high regard for Lola. She always made sure there were bonuses at Christmas time so that the employees' children had presents under the tree.

Morgan Prentice passed away in 1976 at the age of 72.

Lola Prentice has been a long time member of the Eastern Star and the United Church.

She moved to Hyland Crest Senior Citizens' Home in 1980. During her first few years at Hyland Crest, Mrs. Prentice still had a valid driver's license and she often put it to good use transporting fellow residents to various activities.

"Many years of experience and wisdom are there for us to draw from," said one granddaughter.

Along with family and friends, representatives from all levels of government were on hand to help Mrs. Prentice celebrate her 90th birthday.

Victoria-Haliburton Member of Parliament John O'Reilly brought greetings, not only from himself, but also from Prime Minister Chretien.

Chris Hodgson, the Provincial Member of Parliament brought best wishes and Reeve of Anson, Hindon and Minden

Bern Berry offered congratulations on behalf of the municipality as well as the county.

Flanked by Reeve Bern Berry and MP John O'Reilly, Lola Prentice was the centre of attention at Hyland Crest during a celebration of her ninetieth birthday.

Difficult choices should lead to health care 'system'

is changing. We are moving away from institutionalization."

He said the consolidation of services is in line with the policies being implemented at health care facilities and service areas across the province.

The confirmation that the December announcement did in fact mean one of the two Highland's communities would be losing the inpatient acute care facility did not rest easily with some members of the board. Questions were raised about the data which the Ministry of Health used in coming to its consolidation recommendation.

As well, there were questions raised about the financial viability of locating the 30 LTC beds in Haliburton as opposed to adjacent to Hyland Crest in Minden. Board member Doug Campbell reiterated his argument that locating the beds adjacent to the Haliburton Hospital created a higher capital and operating cost when compared to having the 30 beds attached to Hyland Crest.

Thomas acknowledged that the decision may not represent the most economical option, but he noted there were other considerations. He said the community, through the Planning and Development Committee, had recommended the placement of the 30 LTC beds in Haliburton. He also pointed out that the location of the 30 LTC bed facility in Haliburton village had a history going back to the mid-eighties when it was first proposed.

Pressed by several members of the board, Thomas agreed to provide the data the ministry staff used in supporting the placement of the LTC facility and the need for consolidation of the two acute care facilities. He cautioned however that the data does not provide concrete answers in and of itself. He said the facts and figures the ministry gathered was only one element in the response it provided in December.

Campbell has always said any decision should be based on facts and figures, and any reason for deviation from that basis should be stated in a clear manner.

Board development

The representative from the Ministry of Health also outlined a number of suggested steps which the board should follow in the next few years in establishing itself as the group responsible for coordinating health services across the service area. He suggested that, in the next few months, the board should hire a manager to assist in defining the board's responsibilities.

As well, he suggested that between September 1994 and September 1995 the board should begin the health system planning with incorporation of the board set for late 1995 or early 1996. Implementation would follow.

Thomas advised the board that although the ministry had allocated $150,000 to assist in its initial start-up, if the funds were spent in what he described as a "wise manner", the ministry would likely provide additional assistance while the board gets its feet under it.

The acting board meets next on June 28 in Haliburton.

Authors hold open house

Young author Steven Johnson shares his work with, probably his greatest fan, his mother Maureen, during a Meet The Author night on Thursday. The grade 4 students were proudly displaying their creative writing projects.

Thursday was Meet The Author Night at Archie Stouffer Elementary School. Parent and friends of students in Mrs. Coneybeare's Grade Four class were invited to visit the classroom and meet a company of authors who had just completed an exciting year of writing.

Each of the students had written and produced a book about himself, created another book on a favourite subject, and designed a board game.

According to Mrs. Coneybeare, many of the budding authors were enthusiastic writers. She noted that while everyone in the class had completed the required assignments, many found writing so enjoyable that they just kept on writing.

The open house attracted an appreciative crowd of visitors.

Up periscope

Members of Mrs. Eastmure's Grade One class at Archie Stouffer Elementary School were treated to one of the largest sandwiches the youngsters had ever seen. The six foot long submarine was created as a training exercise at the new Subway outlet in Minden and donated to the class. Subway owner, Kim Campbell and staff member Allison Hill delivered the whopper to the class just in time for Thursday's lunch.

Kinmount trekkies

An estimated 40-plus people, ranging in age from a babe-in-arms to 70 plus, participated in the Railroad Trek from Kinmount to County Road 1. The walk was a fund-raiser for the Kinmount Parkland Project.

Diane Austin, secretary of the Kinmount Civic Action Committee, said that the event will be held annually because of this year's success. The final tally isn't in yet, but Austin said that the total is expected to be more than $600.

Austin said that the event was well supported by Kinmount businesses.

"They are always very supportive," she said. "All we have to do is ask."

The trek started at 1 p.m. on June 4 and followed the old railway corridor, ending at the home of Russ and Joan Duhaime, where hot dogs and refreshments were served.

Arnold Schroter was the engineer of a trolley that also made the trip.

Austin said that the Kinmount Civic Action Committee is thinking seriously about holding a bike-a-thon south on the railway corridor later this year. The bike-a-thon would start in Kinmount and go to Fenelon Falls.

The next event the KCAC is involved with is the Canada Day celebrations. Instead of July 1, Kinmount will hold its celebrations on Sunday, July 3.

Among the attractions will be local band Harmony Road.

Leaders of the pack: Ambrose Ferren (left) and Frank Thoms were the first two trekkers to finish the walk from Kinmount to Haliburton County Road 1 during the recent Railroad Trek. Along with being one of the first to finish the course, Ferren also raised the most in pledges for the day at $130.

Tough choices

The information presented at the Acting Health Services Board meeting on Wednesday night confirmed the worst fears of some members of the community. According to the Ministry of Health official, the two hospitals in the county must be consolidated at one location, creating a 19 bed acute care inpatient facility. The decision as to where that consolidation will take place rests with the board.

The announcement places the board members in a difficult position. Any decision is likely to result in resentment, anger and frustration in some sectors of the county.

As painful as the idea of consolidation is, the continued operation of two hospitals, the province's smallest, within 15 miles of each other, just doesn't make fiscal sense. It flies in the face of good management of public funds. It reduces the quality of health care that can be provided to the area population, and it is just not wise use of scarce resources.

As the Acting Health Services Board wrestles with the decision, and they have indicated this issue will receive top priority, there are a number of things that should be kept in mind.

Locating all inpatient acute care services in one community does not mean that all health services must follow to the same location. Indeed, as the representative from the Ministry of Health pointed out at last week's meeting, emergency services and expanded outpatient services can, and for that matter must, be maintained in the community which loses the inpatient beds. To locate all services on one site would only further isolate portions of the county and in the end weaken the health service network the board is attempting to create.

This is not a matter of trade-offs as much as it is common sense. The area has a growing population with almost double the provincial average of seniors. Convenient access to emergency care and outpatient services at a number of locations in the county must be paramount in the board's deliberations.

Any decision that strips one community of all its services will not only strike a devastating blow to that community, but it will alienate a major portion of the population and make it impossible to create a cohesive integrated health network. While it may be easy to focus its attention on this single issue in its deliberations, the board must be sensitive to all of the needs of the people it represents.

The board will be facing some tough decisions. While the members will likely wrestle longest and hardest over the location of the acute care inpatient beds, they must not lose sight of the fact they are creating an integrated plan that includes a full range of health services with a variety of methods of delivery.

With that thought in mind, the planning process can succeed. However, to gain the confidence of the community, the board must ensure that residents are kept informed on the decision making process and the reasoning supporting those choices. In the end, the entire community should benefit from a health system that meets the needs of all residents, while at the same time, recognizing the fiscal limitations that confront us today and will continue to do so.

Sikh and Jewish veterans are welcome in Legion clubroom but not religious symbols

Editor:

The recent controversy about Jewish or Sikh veterans in Royal Canadian club rooms has lost sight of the basic issue....Sikh and Jewish veterans are welcome; their religious symbols are not.

The Canadian Legion is a democratic organizations initiated by veterans for veterans. Each allied veteran has a choice whether to join the Legion or not. However, membership is a privilege not a right, and that privilege is granted on the oath that a member will abide by the governing rules and regulations. This is not unreasonable. The Rotary Club of Canada and the Masonic Lodge, just to name a couple, are organizations which have their rules and regulations for membership. Indeed the military is founded on discipline and regulation.

That Sikh soldiers wore turbans in battle has no relevancy as that was the uniform of their regiment as Imperial troops, just as berets were for Canadian regiments, and berets are not worn in Legion club rooms.

By contrast, imagine the response if a Canadian in India insisted on wearing a beret or Stetson in an Indian police force or their military.

When any group chooses to leave their homeland because of religious intolerance or political differences they are welcomed into Canada. Well and good! They should be able to practise and preserve their own beliefs and traditions. However, when a vocal minority also import their own intolerance and militancy, they breed racism, fear and distrust.

The Legion club room is not a forum for religious or political discussion or symbolism. Again, Sikh and Jewish veterans are welcome—their religious symbols are not.

Wake up Canadians. Our national identity is being undermined, not by those new Canadians who contribute to the Canadian mosaic, but by those who come to our country to proselytize their own insidious intolerance and then scream racism.

Support your Legion veterans. They fought for Canada before and they are still carrying the torch.

Disappointed by lack of coverage

Editor:

We were very disappointed that once again this year The Times failed to acknowledge the Victoria County Studio Tour, June, 4 and 5, even though a press release was left with your office in advance.

The few people from Haliburton and surrounding are that we did reach through flyers and posters were excited to realize that there was a spring tour in Victoria County, not to be confused with the Haliburton fall tour.

We appreciate the support of area newspapers to help the many people in the area who would be interested in exploring the many studios and homes of the skilled artists and craftspeople living throughout Victoria County.

We hope we can look forward to your cooperation next year.

Leave the hospital where it is

Editor:

There are quite a number of projects around Minden raising money for the hospital. We all agree that Minden needs a hospital. I, however, do not see the wisdom of adding it to Hyland Crest. The hospital, where it is situated now, is visible and easily accessible from the highway. To move the hospital to a residential area where one has to cross a bridge and drive through residential streets seems ridiculous when we already have one in a very strategic area, with a helicopter pad beside it. I believe the community's money would be better spent making the present facility more viable. The staff of the hospital is excellent and the proximity of the doctors provides immediate coverage. Why change something that has worked well for something questionable?

Boss brass

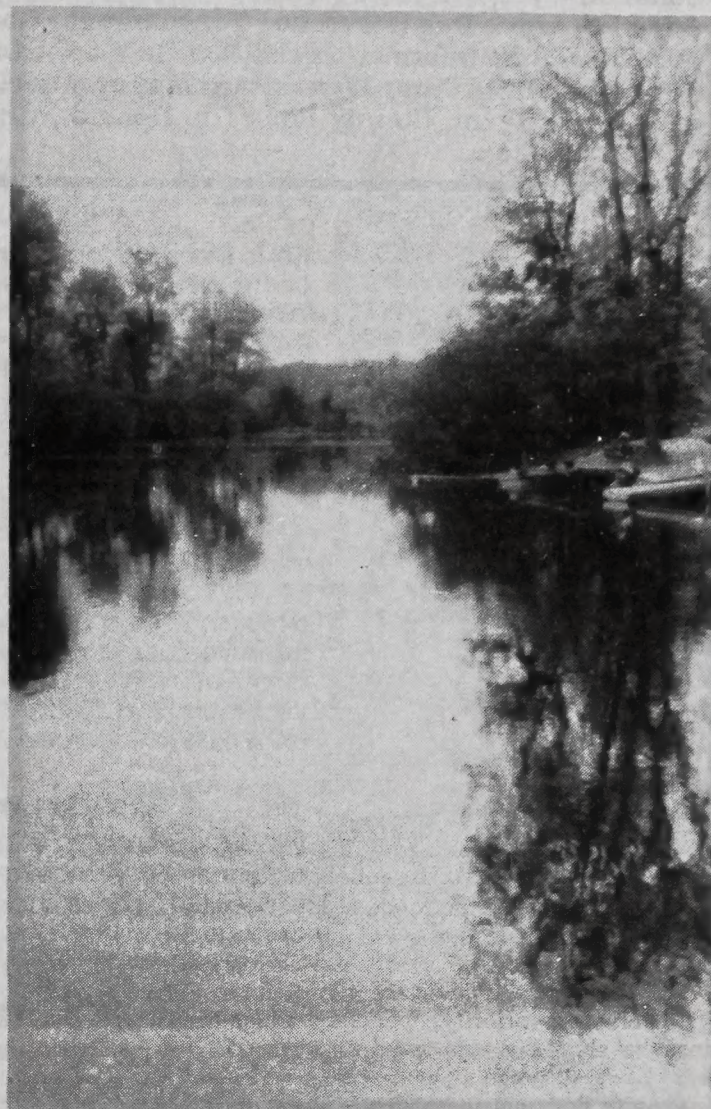

Editor:

In response to Don Holden's letter of June 13th, YES! the Brasserama musical on May 31st was indeed a brilliant performance.

The Brass Quintessence humour along with their excellent musical talent was most enjoyable. I'm sure it proved to the younger musicians that music is not all work and no play.

We will be watching The Times for a repeat performance, hopefully in the near future.

Reflections

The logger's dilemma: a nineties update

"All who have meditated on the art of governing have been convinced that the fate of empires depends on the education of youth."

Aristotle

"I question whether we can afford to teach mother macrame while John still can't read." former California governor Jerry Brown.

There is a can before me labelled EDUCATION and I'm hesitant to take the top off.

Hesitant because I know that any remarks I write about The State of Education These Days is bound to unleash a blizzard of faxes, letters, telegrams and Interdepartmental memos denouncing me as an unlettered lout, and untutored twit and a gormless boob who doesn't know his astrophysics from a hologram in the ground.

All true — but it's never stopped me before.

Off with his head then: is it just me, or are teenage kids today even blunter than we were?

I have no hard and fast empirical evidence for this — just the grim news I read in the papers from time to time.

It bothers me to read for example, that the West German school year works out to be a full two months longer than ours. And that Japanese and Korean kids spend all day Saturday in the classroom.

Meanwhile a North American third grader will spend 900 hours this year in a classroom — and 1170 hours watching television.

Norwegian kids can locate 150 major cities on a world map — in grade three. Last week I met a Canadian high school graduate who didn't know where Montreal was in relation to Toronto.

An American magazine recently published a compilation of college courses including:

Black'n White

by Arthur Black

Supervised Reading (Cornell); Surfing (Peppercorn); and Choosing a Life (Northwestern).

Then there's the impressions I pick up as I travel across the country. From Comox to Kapuskasing to Come by Chance I swear I keep running into kids whose vocabulary seems to primarily consist of one adjective (rilly), one conjunction (like), one exclamatory phrase (no way) and the present tense of the verb "to go."

Interteen conversations: "So like I go 'rilly?' And she goes like 'no way.' And I go, like, 'no rilly?....'"

So who's fault is it — the kids? Nah. They don't write the curriculum. The teachers? Nope. Canuck teachers are among the most intelligent and dedicated professionals I've ever met.

So who then? Preston Manning? The Devil? Search me. I'd write it all off as Old Fogey paranoia except that every once in a while somebody from the other side of the crenellated battlements of Castle Pedagogica lobs a bomb over the wall to land at my feet.

Such as this missive entitled History of a Math Problem, which tracks the progress of modern thinking in Education:

1960: A logger sells a truckload of lumber for $100. If his cost of production is 4/5 of his selling price, what is his profit?

1970: A logger sells a truckload of lumber for $100. His cost of production is 4/5 of his selling price, or, in other words, $80. What is his profit?

1980: A logger sells a truckload of lumber for $100. His cost of production is $80 and his profit is $20. Your assignment is to find and underline the number 20.

1990: By cutting down trees for MacMillan-Bloedel, a logger makes $20. If clear cutting is stopped the logger will lose his job and will probably turn to a life of crime.

—How do the squirrels feel about the logger losing his job?

—Would you help the logger keep his job by letting him cut down the trees on your lawn? Your neighbour's lawn?

—What do the birds say as a tree is being cut down?

The foregoing came to me on official (I won't say which) Board of Education letterhead. Depressing? Not a bit. If teachers can make fun of the absurdities of modern education, then there's hope for us yet.

Several years ago in the community, a concerted effort was made to ensure that every business in the downtown area was sporting at least one Canadian flag for the July 1 holiday. As a result, the community looked alive and suitably decked out for the nation's birthday. The flags were out again last year, but this year it seems to be taking a little longer for the flags to be brought out of hiding. (Perhaps after two years they have become a little tattered, or maybe they're "lost".) There is less than two weeks left until the July first weekend and, as most in Minden have seen from the posters and ads in the newspaper, the local committee once again has a fun-filled program lined up. Merchants and residents can add greatly to the spirit of the celebration by flying a flag or two. Several of the stores in the area have flag kits, which include bracket, pole, and flag. With a small expense and a little work we can have the community all dressed up and ready for the July 1 birthday party. And after the party is over, leave the flags flying for the remainder of the summer.

M.A.B.A.

by Dale Merrill

The Minden & Area Business Association has held several more meetings in the past few weeks.

Following the May 4 meeting, the group rallied behind the Minden Timbersport Festival organizers to help keep the fledgling world-class event alive. Anyone who attended the Timbersport Festival on June 11 will attest to the fact that the event was a complete success.

The M.A.B.A. made great strides in its goal to erect additional signage for Minden on Highway 35. Andy Hillo, a professional artist, has provided the group with an eye-catching design and local sign-maker Tara Lowe has been commissioned to produce the design on sandblasted cedar, a technique that is both attractive and durable.

The group has already begun fund-raising for the signs through the selling of raffle tickets. The prize is a pair of cowboy boots, a Stetson cowboy hat and a western bolo tie. Tickets for the raffle are available in several area businesses at a price of $1 each or 6 for $5.

The M.A.B.A. is also holding an auction at Northshore Lawn & Garden Centre on July 1. We have been receiving a wealth of items donated from Minden and area residents and businesses. Anyone interested in donating items for the auction, are asked to drop them off at Minden ESSO on Highway 35.

At the latest M.A.B.A. meeting held on June 14, the association came up with another way to raise money to cover the cost of the signs. Individuals and businesses are being offered an opportunity to purchase a square foot of the sign at a cost of $50. There is no limit on the number of square feet a business or individual can purchase. The total cost of the signs is $11,000.

The M.A.B.A. is very grateful for the enthusiasm and support it has received from the B.I.A., the Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council, the Ministry of Transportation, The Times and several area businesses and individuals, too numerous to mention. Residents are asked to watch for M.A.B.A. members displaying the proposed sign and either selling tickets for the raffle or certificates indicating the purchase of a square foot section of the sign. We'll note contributions to the sign fund in future columns.

Two donations have already been received to kick off our sign campaign. A big thank you to Northshore Lawn and Garden and Jean Anthon for their $100 donations.

The membership of the association now stands at approximately 16, and of course, the invitation is open to anyone interested in joining. Details of the next meeting will be announced in The Times.

Just stopped in for a bite

These diners got a big surprise during their meal at Village Donuts and Family Restaurant Friday evening. While they were dining, a giant black fly, known as Biter, buzzed by their table. They quickly learned there was nothing to be concerned about, and the fly was just a mascot created by Special Effects for the community Black Fly Madness Sale. The fly visited participating stores throughout the community, chatting with shoppers and delighting the children. Anyone who was concerned about the black fly need not worry. As our picture reveals, he's on our side....he's carrying a number of fly swatters to deter any of his pesky friends who may be lurking in the area.

Jim Todd: Minden's custom golf club craftsman

Helping golfers improve their games by tailoring clubs to the individual

by Jerry Grozelle

What do you do to improve your golf game? That's a question that most avid golfers would give their favourite wedge to answer.

Jim Todd is an avid golfer and he tried several things to improve his game. Different clubs didn't seem to make much of a difference, so he decided to make his own.

The result was a gain of 15 to 20 yards on his drives, straighter drives and he seems to have cured a "wicked slice" that plagued him on occasion. The payoff is a few strokes shaved off his average game.

Now, Todd is custom building clubs for other people. He has a reputable supplier of components (Dynacraft) from the United States. He can get a variety of steel or graphite shafts... more than a thousand to choose from, at a wide price range.

Among the more important pieces of specialized equipment he has acquired is a Beltronics Swing Speed Analyzer. It works similar to a radar gun. The Analyzer helps in determining where to start in selecting the stiffness of the shaft. Todd says most people overestimate the speed of their swing. Torque (or twist) is another consideration if graphite shafts are used and swing speed is a key factor affecting the acceptable torque.

The swing speed analyzer also helps determine the proper weight of head to suit each individual.

Jumbo drivers are popular these days. The average jumbo is 204 grams with a volume of 220 cubic centimetres. The weight can vary 10 grams either way.

The average driver, by comparison weighs 202 grams with a volume of 150 cc. and an average oversized wood driver tips the scales at 196 grams.

To adjust the weight, small amounts of lead can be added to the bottom of the shaft where it is attached to the head. Some club heads have a swing weight port right in the head, where powdered lead can be added directly.

Custom clubs offer more than just matching the weight and shaft stiffness to the individual golfer. The three main components of the club, including the grip as well as the head and shaft can be fine tuned to suit any sized golfer, with any swing speed.

The lie of each club is another important element. Lie is the angle of the head to the shaft. To determine the lie is a fairly easy process, as Todd explains. By putting a strip of masking tape along the bottom of the club and taking a few swings across a piece of plywood, without a tee, he can tell which way the lie should be. For each quarter of an inch off centre (where the tape is scuffed) the head should be tilted one degree. If the scuff mark is toward the toe of the club, it should be tilted one degree upright. If it is closer to the heel, the angle should be flatter.

Measuring up: Jim Todd measures the length of a custom golf club with one of the hand made "instruments" he built. A set of clubs tailored to the individual's size and swing weight can have a positive effect on his or her golf scores.

"It's nothing too complicated," Todd said. "But one of the quickest fixes for your game is the proper lie."

Even though the lie is a quick and easy way to improve a golfer's game, Todd still thinks the correct shaft stiffness is the most important element. And in the case of a graphite shaft, he includes torque in the winning formula.

Along with the analyzer, a protractor and loft, which are commercially made pieces of equipment, Todd has a couple of "instruments" that he built himself. One is a swing weight scale and the other is a length scale.

Being a cabinet maker and carpenter by trade, Todd had no trouble putting these pieces of equipment together.

"It kind of fits in with my woodworking business," he said.

Todd got started in custom golf club building this past winter.

"I'm just basically getting started in it," he says.

He would like to see the business grow.

The popular theory used to be that you should use the longest club that you can swing comfortably. But that theory may be losing some of its credibility.

Now, to the bottom line. What does it cost for a set of Jim Todd custom golf clubs? There are several factors that influence the cost of materials. The biggest range in cost is in the shaft.

In general, Todd says that the average set of his custom clubs is in the medium price range, as compared to a top of the line commercially made set.

But then again, what is it worth to shave a few strokes off your game?

Young Eagles supporters: Some of the people who will be helping out at the Young Eagles event at Stanhope Airport on July 9 and 10 are: (l to r) Barry Hart, Norm Mills, Heidi Buffett, Hannu Halminen and Airport Manager Mike Carey. They are posed in front of Halminen's Waco YMF5 bi-plane.

Young Eagles get a chance to fly at Stanhope Airport July 9 and 10

Several pilots who frequent the Stanhope Airport will be volunteering their time, expertise and equipment on the weekend of July 9 and 10 to participate in a Young Eagles weekend.

Young Eagles is a program instituted by the Experimental Aircraft Association (EAA). The goal of the program is to give at least one million young people between the ages of eight and 17 the opportunity to see the world from an eagle's eye view by, providing free airplane rides.

If the program goes according to plan, by the year 2003, which will be the 100th anniversary of powered flight and the 50th anniversary of the EAA, a million young people from around the world will have been given a free flight.

The EAA was concerned about the decline in the number of pilots over the past 15 years and Young Eagles is designed to rejuvenate an interest in aviation.

Since 1979, the number of licensed pilots in the United States alone has decreased by about 114,000.

The stated mission of the Young Eagles Program is "to provide a motivational aviation experience, focusing on a demonstration flight in an airplane."

June 11 was officially Young Eagles Day internationally. But, because of climate and geography, Stanhope Airport officials decided to hold the event in July.

Young Eagles....

Volunteer pilots will take youngsters on a predetermined circuit, lasting about 15 minutes. The event will run from about 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on both days.

Youngsters who participate will receive a certificate from the EAA signed by renowned experimental pilot Chuck Yeager.

A variety of planes will be on hand to take the youngsters for rides. The possible list includes a Lark Commander, Beech Bonanza, Cessna 172 and 152, Piper Pacer, Waco (bi-plane), Beech Baron, Piper Cherokee, Beech Sport and Piper Arrow.

Airport manager Mike Carey said the response has been great so far. As of Friday, he had about 30 signed up.

"I've been flooded with phone calls," he said.

Before their flights, the Young Eagles will get a flight kit, which gives an explanation of the program and touches briefly on some of the ground school basics. The main parts of an airplane are outlined and the four basic forces of flight (gravity, thrust, lift and drag) are explained. Instrumentation will also be discussed.

Potential Young Eagles will be required to have written permission from a parent or guardian. A registration form must be filled out.

After the flight, each new Eagle Flight Member will receive a certificate, identifying him or her as an official part of Eagle Flight. The name and address of the participant, date of flight and type of aircraft the flight was in will be recorded by the pilot and forwarded to the Young Eagle headquarters in Oshkosh, Wisconsin. The names of all of the participants will be entered in the "world's largest log book", which will be on permanent display at the EAA Air Adventure Museum.

A newsletter with a colourful wall poster will be sent to each Young Eagle outlining other EAA activities and suggesting other organizations with youth oriented aviation programs that may be of interest.

Why would a pilot give up a weekend, provide his or her airplane and fuel in support of the Young Eagles Program? As one pilot pointed out: "It's a way of giving something back to the people of the area who supported the Stanhope Airport."

More information or registration forms can be obtained from Mike Carey at the Stanhope Airport. The telephone number is 754-2611.

Pitchin'

The heat wave that was upon us last Thursday kept a few regulars away from the weekly horseshoe pitching at the Minden Fairgrounds. Doug Robinson took first place in the weekly competition picking up 208 points. Jerald Cooper placed second for the night with 200 points. Third place went to Wayne Parnell with 190 points. Jerry Cooper Jr. is seen here letting one fly. Although he started off well, he finished out of the top three.

People

Who Make a Difference Bob and Audrey Vick

by Kelly Pettinger

Walking into the Vick residence, one is immediately surrounded by a sense of family, hospitality, and above all love and happiness. Family portraits and candid snapshots showing the smiling faces of their young children and grandchildren take up a large portion of wall space. Bob says a deep and hearty hello as Audrey opens the door and welcomes her company. "A cup of tea?" "Are you comfortable sitting there?" "Are you sure you don't want anything?" Just a few of the questions asked in the first 60 seconds in the Vick home.

Bob Vick was born and raised "at the farm next door to where I am now" in Gelert. He graduated from grade eight, but took four courses in grade nine and decided he had enough. Audrey Vick was born and raised in Lochlin, graduated from grade ten and worked during the summer at different lodges. She was planning to move on to college and learn a trade as a secretary, but the summer before she would have left for college, she met Bob.

"We met at a dance at Bonnie View Lodge. My friend and I used to go up there sometimes, and I saw her there, and that was it. The next week I had to attend at a funeral, so I had my friend go to the dance and keep an eye on Audrey, and make sure she didn't dance with anyone else," said Bob.

They were married the next fall on September 1 when Audrey was 18 and Bob was 25. Now, almost 50 years later, the bond of their marriage is as strong as ever.

For several years Bob attempted to make a living solely as a farmer. However, an opening occurred with the CNR section gang and he signed on. The job that was his for the next 40 years. The work required that he travel the rail line, maintaining the rail bed and repairing tracks. He would often be away from home for days at a time, while Audrey stayed on the farm, raising the children.

His roots ran deep in the farm soil however, and when he wasn't working with CNR Bob could be found working the farm and taking care of the kids while Audrey worked in Peterborough at St. Joseph's Hospital.

"I worked on the maternity floor taking trays away and doing different chores for the mothers. It was a lot of fun seeing the little babies and I certainly enjoyed it, but I only worked there for nine months because Bob had to go out and repair some tracks, and I had to be home with the children," said Audrey.

For 23 years Bob held three jobs. In addition to working with CNR and farming, he served as a member of Snowdon Township council. He had only been a councillor for two years when he was elected Reeve of the township. "Snowdon is the smallest township in Haliburton County, but it's the most important township in Haliburton County," Bob announced proudly.

For one year in 1977, he was served as Warden of Haliburton County. "It was quite an honour," said Bob.

In 1988 he retired from municipal politics, and last year he decided to retire from farm work. "Last year was the first time I hadn't cut they hay. But you have to be a totally healthy person to be able to do the work. And my heart isn't so good any more," said Bob.

Audrey also had health problems last year, causing her to slow down on heavy chores. "Usually I have a big garden, but this year I only planted flowers. It is unfortunate because I usually take my gardening seriously," she said.

Taking jobs seriously is a major part of Audrey and Bob's lives. For many years the Vicks have hosted children's Hallowe'en and Christmas parties at the community hall in Gelert.

"The children loved it, and we love doing it for them," said Audrey.

Together the Vicks are members of the community hall board. Bob has been an honorary member for 25 years, and Bob, and Audrey Vick and companion Scamp at home in Gelert.

Audrey has been a member for six years.

As a board member Audrey helps out with local charities by stitching quilts and using the funds raised in raffles for the cemetery, Hyland Crest or other community projects in need of funding.

Quilting is Audrey's favourite hobby. "I do at least one quilt a year," she said. "I went to Hyland Crest last week and helped out in the quilting bee. They're making a quilt to raffle. It's a lot of fun."

Her latest project is making a quilt for her newest grandson. Audrey admits the work is "a bit behind schedule because I still have to make one for the second-youngest grandchild, before I can make one for the new one. I have a lot of work to do, but I don't mind" said Audrey.

In spite of her busy schedule Audrey still manages to find time to be a member of the board for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind (CNIB). She helps out with organizing canvassing, and she even does a little herself. "We did really well the last couple of years. Everybody has been really generous," said Audrey.

Bob and Audrey are proud members of the Kinmount Fair Board, but unfortunately they don't go as much as they used to.

"Our wedding anniversary is on the first day of September and the Kinmount Fair often takes place on that day," Bob explains. "So, for a present I would take her to the fair," Bob laughed.

"And I have to work at it too," Audrey said giving Bob a scolding look.

In the wintertime the Vicks don't travel south as some people their age do. Instead they travel extensively, "to the mail box and back and maybe some shopping in town," said Bob.

"We never vacation anywhere. We don't go down south or anything like that. We've been out west three times. 1988 was the last time we were out there. But there are lots of times when we feel the need to get going, but we never do. We visit family around the area, but that's about it," said Audrey.

"The family comes to visit often, and we have a lot of company, and we play a lot of cards. We usually play 500, or maybe euchre. We don't do too much gambling. We just enjoy ourselves living here," said Audrey.

"We have been blessed with wonderful neighbours," said Bob as a contented grin wrinkles his face.

Senior curlers brave weather on links

by Dave McAdam

Last Tuesday the Seniors' Curling Club held its annual golf tournament at Beaverbrook Golf Club. As you may recall, the day started out very overcast and a Scotch mist held us all in suspense. Would the skies open and the thunder, lightning, and rain drown out a day that had otherwise been planned by the committee as a great social and fun event? The days leading to the tournament had, in fact, been wash outs and with just such weather.

As it turned out, the decision to go ahead was made. As the day went on the weather improved and the worse that happened was that some of us with leaky golf shoes wound up with dish-pan feet.

When the competitive part of the was completed, the talented golfers who took the laurels were: First place team - John E. Thomas, Roy McDonald, and Ebby Bishop. The Gil and Mary Scott Trophy was accordingly presented to this team by our secretary, Muriel Harrington. Second place winners were Don Drewell, Bill Trapp, Ruth Hamilton, and Cliff Heckel. Closest to the hole: Men - Roy McDonald, Ladies - Billie Shuyler. Longest drive: Men - Jack Harrington, Ladies - Iris Drewell.

In the evening the fun moved to Deer Lodge on the shores of beautiful Lake Kashagawigamog, where a delicious buffet supper was served. The winners, of course, were acknowledged and our M.C., John Warren, kept the party lively with a liberal number of jokes and humour. John has done a wonderful job in his capacity of Special Events Chairman and we have appreciated the results of his hard work at this and other social events. Thanks John, we're grateful.

Communication, critical for safety

Highlands Yard salutes Minden Radio Club

Officials from the Highlands Yard have chosen Phil Graham and the Minden Amateur Radio Club to receive the annual Community Salute for 1994.

Race spokesman Ian Sainsbury said this year's citation recognizes the long-standing support provided by the Radio Club to the Haliburton Highlands' "Most Venerable Road Race" as well as many other special events held throughout the year in the community.

"Nobody on the AMICI Race Committee remembers how the radio club became involved with the Yard. One year, without being asked, they just turned up like a band of angels, providing communications support critical to the success and safety of the race every year since," Sainsbury said. "Ironically, I've gotten to know the Minden Radio Club best working closely with them every winter at the Minden Sled Dog Derby, where their services are indispensable."

Phil Graham, a founding member of the club who is active in the Highlands' community life, was chosen for special recognition. He will receive the 1994 Community Salute on behalf of the entire membership.

The Minden Amateur Radio Club currently has a membership of about 25 to 30 people.

Graham says it takes an average of six or seven ham operators to provide communications for most events. The Yard and the Sled Dog Derby are exceptions, where he says it takes at least eight or more to look after all the check points and keep everybody informed.

This summer, AMICI will celebrate 10 years as organizing body of the Highlands Yard, which is held as a fund-raiser to send kids to camps throughout Ontario. After losing the original sponsor last year, the Yard returned with a new name and a new sponsor, Beck's Brewery of Germany. Since 1986, AMICI has honoured individuals or organizations for their contribution to life in the Highlands.

Past Community Salutes include the council of Anson, Hindon and Minden, the Rockcliffe Hotel, Camp Onondaga, the OPP, Minden Ambulance, Cub Conneysbeare, Gord Monk and last year, the Brandon

Every Friday at 10 a.m. members of the Minden Amateur Radio Club gather at Mr. D's Donuts and Restaurant in Minden for an informal meeting. The club will be receiving formal recognition for providing communications at the Highland Yard and other activities within Haliburton County. Some of the members who made an appearance at last Friday's meeting are: front row (l to r) Bob Schindler VE3 FIS, Jim George VE3 CNS, Ken Stockwell VE3 BWO and Cec Jones VE3 HEV. Back row (l to r) Steve Brown VA3 SMB, Phil Graham VE3 APL, Brent Davies VE3 EJW, Tom Lee VE3 PZS and Tom Nicholson VE3 UFL.

The formal presentation will take place at the Rockcliffe on Friday, July 29 following the race.

Race information is available locally at the Chamber of Commerce (286-1760) or by calling 1-800-461-7677.

Kinmount housing project gets $35,000 boost

The Kinmount Non-Profit Housing Corporation is one step closer to realizing its dream of a seniors and low income townhouse complex in the village.

The provincial government issued a cheque for $35,000 to finance the studies that will be necessary to make the site selection.

Chairperson of the corporation Flo Jopling said: "I'm going to have a great pleasure handing the cheque over to our treasurer."

"We're very, very happy," Jopling added. "It's been a long haul. It seems like a long time since we got the go-ahead."

The cheque arrived

via Canada Post on Thursday, June 16.

"I really appreciate the interest of our community residents as well as people from the surrounding area," Jopling added. "I've been getting calls from time to time asking how we were doing. It has been a real boost."

Jopling said the corporation will keep the public informed of further developments.

Do You Want

A place in the country? (But not too far from town.)

Privacy? (But not isolated or all alone.)

Space to swing the cat? (But, please don't.)

Rustic fence & trees? (But not a wild animal forest.)

Room for the family? (Even if only for visits.)

Southern hacienda-style ambience? (But frost proof.)

Mail delivery and paved road? (You don't like dust.)

A garden? (It won't interrupt your tee-off time.)

A dock? (Fish for breakfast)

Or just a place that is neighbourly, comfortable, and a good, sound investment?

If you do, I may just have the place for you.

Foundation says 'thank you'

The Haliburton Chapter of Heart and Stroke Foundation held its annual "thank-you dinner" at Birch Point Lodge last Wednesday.

Although the night was hot and humid, the chatter was friendly and the people enjoyed the food from a bountiful pot luck spread. The dinner was organized by the committee members, and through the generosity of the owners of Birch Point Lodge, the dining room and refreshments for the pre-dinner social hour, were donated.

Awards were presented to those who were involved with Swim for Heart, Dance for Heart and Ski for Heart fund raising campaigns. The association also paid tribute to other outstanding volunteers who helped with canvassing and donations. Both The Times and the Haliburton County Echo were awarded certificates for their help in promoting the work of the foundation.

Shawn Hagerman, president of the Haliburton County chapter, received the president's pin in recognition of his two years of service as head of the organization.

"It's been a most enjoyable two years. I view the people out here the most important people of the organization," he said referring to the many volunteers in attendance. "Without you, this chapter of the Heart and Stroke wouldn't be what it is today," Hagerman said.

Hagerman, who is also a Mutual Life agent, spoke about the importance of donors, not just those who provide money, but those who sign their organ donor cards. "Life is like a lottery for people who are waiting for organs. Thousands of people may die because of lack of donors," he said.

Through the president, the committee expressed its appreciation to the many volunteers who assisted the foundation during the past year. "We couldn't have done it without your support," he concluded.

THE TRUTH ABOUT FIREARMS AND CRIME

Legal firearms are NOT commonly used in crime. Smuggled, illegal firearms are the choice of the criminal. A recent survey of firearms used in crime showed that the vast majority were smuggled from the United States and sold on urban streets.

Cadets Corps praised for dedication at annual inspection

The overhead lights reflected brightly in the shiny boots and the pride of membership shone just as radiantly, as the members of the 1129 Royal Canadian Cadet Corps snapped to attention for their ninth annual inspection. The review was held at the Haliburton Curling Club Sunday afternoon (June 12).

Under the watchful eye of their instructors, reviewing officer Lieutenant Colonel M. Rodd and their parents and friends, the cadets paraded smartly as the members of Branch 129 Legion Pipe band provided music.

Following the inspection, the reviewing officer told the 24 cadets that they are a credit to the Army Cadet organization. He stressed that they should be proud of their accomplishments and that the community appreciated the effort they put into their training.

Commanding Officer, Captain Dennis Allaire, told the audience that if there was one word which described the members of the Haliburton Cadet Corps, that word was "dedication". He noted that many of the members travelled long distances to be involved in the training exercises through the year. He said that kind of dedication can only enrich the organization, and he felt the results of that effort were evident in the fine performance witnessed that day.

The inspection included a march past, demonstration of precision marching by the drill team, a first aid demonstration and the presentation of awards. Following the formal ceremonies, the members of the audience were invited to inspect a number of displays. At each of the demonstration areas, cadets were on hand to answer questions and provide additional insight into the training the group has been involved in over the past season.

The following awards were presented to this year's outstanding cadets:

-Cadet Dawn Mitchell received the award for the cadet who has put forth the most effort during the training year. The award was presented by Mabel Brannigan.

-Cadet Gord Lauren received the Gerald Irish award, presented by Mr. Irish, for the most improved dress.

-Cadet Justin McConnell received the Royal Canadian Legion (129) Trophy for the most improved cadet. The trophy was presented by past president Wally Chambers.

-Cadet Sergeant Karen Ashenbrenner received the Joan Irish trophy, presented by Mrs. Irish, for the best female cadet.

-Cadet Sergeant Eric Kramkowski received the Haliburton Lumber Trophy for the best male cadet. The trophy was presented by Dysart Reeve Curry Bishop.

-Cadet Master Warrant Officer Ryan Smith received the commanding officers trophy for the most outstanding cadet of the year.

Members of the inspection team and the audience kept a close eye on the proceedings as three members of the Cadet Corps demonstrate their first aid skills on an "injured" comrade. The cadet at the right outlines the procedures the cadets are following for the benefit of the audience.

Tips on protecting your property

Operation Identification is a program that is designed to discourage theft of valuable items from your home, cottage, and other locations and to provide an easy way for the police to identify recovered property.

With Operation Identification, valuable items are marked permanently with an identification number which is identifiable to you. It may be your driver's licence number, social insurance number, or any number. The marks should be applied to non-removable and hidden parts of your valuables. Keep a log of all your property and include serial numbers and the location of your Operation Identification marks.

In co-operation with the independent insurance brokers/agents, stickers are available to be placed on your front door to deter would-be thieves.

Approximately 80 per cent of all stolen property recovered by the police is unable to be identified by the owner of the property.

Operation Identification is only one way that you can be involved in crime prevention in your community. For more information on crime prevention, contact your local detachment of the OPP.

The crime unit of the Kawartha OPP would like to highlight an area of particular concern as the boating season commences. Last year, (1993 boating season) approximately 55 outboard motors were reported stolen within the Kawartha OPP's jurisdiction.

The total losses sustained by victims is estimated at $85,000.

So far, early in this boating season, about a dozen motors have been reported stolen. The thefts occur at private cottages, marinas, and anywhere else marine equipment may be found unattended.

To reduce the risk of being a victim of such a theft, property owners are requested to either remove the motor from their boat when they are not using it for an extended periods of time, or at least to secure the motor to the boat with a hardened alloy steel chain or cable. Then, secure the boat by the same means to the dock.

Good lighting is an essential, cost-effective crime prevention measure. Promote all-night lighting at the marina or near the dock where you have selected to store your boat and motor. Use an automatic timer to activate lighting and/or radio. In residence marina operations, operators and owners should consider placing the transmitting unit of an intercom system at the dock, with the receiving unit located in the residence or cottage.

Lochlin ladies host tea party

Sunday, Estelle Burch came to read another chapter of the book we are reading. Thank you Estelle.

Rev. John Burgess took chapel in the evening. Ruth Worthington played the organ for us. We thank Ruth and John for bringing us the service.

Monday, Bonnie Berry and Judy Johnson brought the grade 5 students from Archie Stouffer Elementary School to the home. We had hot dogs and hamburgers and ice cream bars. The pupils and some of the residents of Hyland Crest have been writing back and forth as pen pals. Thanks to Molly McCarthy for all her work writing the letters and delivering them. Molly was presented with a floral wreath made in crafts. Several students performed, including highland dancers Sarah Wilbee, Heather McKelvey, and Katie Cox. Heather McKelvey, Lizzy Brown, Jeremy Johnson, and Erin Fielding all played the piano. Mark Sisson presented a gift to Holly McCarthy and Jeff Pentney presented a donation to Hyland Crest from the class. We enjoyed the entertainment and letters throughout the year.

Tuesday, Father Parker came by and held chapel with communion service. We thank Father Parker and Jean Cox for playing the organ. In the afternoon there were crafts with Dottie Muirhead and Donna Wallace. We were drying flowers and making place mats for Father's Day.

Wednesday morning Donna Wallace came in to help with my column and then we went for lunch. We hurried home to go for a bus ride. There wasn't room on the bus for everyone, so Donna took Ken Anderson and I in the car and we followed the bus, except we went in the opposite direction and met the bus on Highway 503. We still went to Kawartha dairy for our ice cream cones. In the evening Pearl Cowen came to help us with Euchre. It was a good evening. Thank you Pearl.

Wednesday night Earl and Eleanor Cooper and Nancy Bussey came to sing and play for us. Thank you.

Thursday we had a tea party. The ladies from Lochlin brought lunch and served us. John Menzies played beautiful piano music during the tea. It was a very nice time for all. The ladies who served were Lois Peters, Marie Baker, Shirley Hill, Yvadee Feltham and Mildred Hill. Thanks for a wonderful time. Ladies.

On Friday we had happy hour from 2-4 p.m. Entertainment was by Al Blanchard on guitar, Oscar Stewart on fiddle, Lloyd Madill on guitar, Julie Chalmer guitar and vocal, Marilyn Stiles and Zoe Chilco singing. The volunteers were Ellen and Don Holden, Bonnie Fullan, and Dottie Muirhead. We thank the entertainers and the volunteers for their participation.

The last word on Denmark

This is the last time I will be writing to the newspaper, as I have only two weeks left in Denmark before I come home to Canada—after exactly eleven and a quarter months. (Editor's note: Meaghan's letter is dated June 8 and she has written a note across the top, "RUSH! I'm home Tuesday June 21".)

I've just gotten back from my Euro Bus Tour and had the trip of a lifetime. It really could not have been any better. The tour took us to Berlin and Dresden in Germany, Prague in the Czech Republic, Lido de Isolo, Verona, Venice, San Bartholomew in Italy, Monaco, Avignon and Paris in France, Brussels Belgium, Amsterdam Holland and home to Denmark.

This whirlwind European tour lasted 19 days with 45 exchange students from all over the world taking part. We made the most of the short time we had to see all we could, and although I was very tired when we got home, I loved every minute of it.

In the five weeks preceding the Euro Tour, I mainly went to school, visited lots of people and went "on the town", which is a Danish teen tradition. Going on the town is getting really dressed up, going out to a discotheque around 12:30 a.m., and coming

Day from Denmark

by Meaghan Obee

home at 5 a.m.! This is the place that everyone meets with their friends, chats, dances and just has a good time.

Then on the way home, it is tradition to stop at the bakery for rolls. Finally to bed at 6 a.m.

Otherwise, the weeks from April 11 (my last letter) until May 13 (when I left on the tour) were uneventful.

To end the last letter, I would like to try and summarize what it is like to be an exchange student. This is very difficult for anyone to really grasp the idea of leaving home at 16 for a year, learning a new language, having a whole new family, and trying to be on your best behavior, be an ambassador for Canada, and trying to deal with every problem you encounter.

No, the year was not always—or at all—like being at home, but I had an absolutely splendid time and would do it again at the drop of a hat. If anyone has any desire to do it, I would say it is the best decision I have ever made in my life to be a Rotary Youth Exchange Student in Denmark, the land of the Vikings.

The answer to the population problem is in the water

Evolution takes place through an interaction between a species' genetic make-up and its surroundings. Over a vast expanse of time, precisely coordinated metabolic reactions enable living organisms to incorporate air, water and food into themselves.

A chart of all the known chemical reactions in a cell covers half an office wall. Individual reactions or whole sets of them are regulated in different ways.

One method of control is with hormones. They are molecules that travel between cells and function as chemical messengers by informing their targets to crank up or shut down specific reactions. Their role is precisely determined and even a minuscule number of hormones molecules may play a large role in a cell's fate.

We are probably most familiar with hormones involved with sex, the dominant male hormone being testosterone, and in females, estrogen. They are vital compounds during pregnancy, in regulating both the complex changes in the mother's body and the development and differentiation of gender and reproductive organs in the fetus.

Precise as the response of the cell's metabolism to hormones may be, it is not absolutely infallible. A hormone's role may be determined by its size, shape and reactivity, properties that can be mimicked by other molecules often called analogs. That is what chemists exploited to create birth control pills. The synthesized analog resembles estrogen enough to act like the hormone in cells, but it has also been chemically modified to make it resistant to gastric juices so that it can be taken orally. That means a hormone analog can persist in the body and pass out in urine.

During the '70s when the "pill" had become a major form of contraception, I half jokingly asked a physiologist how much synthetic estrogen could end up in the sewers. Doing a very rough calculation, he estimated an annual output of tonnes in Canada alone. In jest, I let my voice rise to a falsetto and suggested there might not be a population problem in the future.

But what seemed like science fiction may now be science fact. British media reports about estrogen pollution in drinking water have triggered near panic among residents living alone along the Thames River in London.

Hermaphroditic fish are being caught in the Thames, particularly where urban sewage flows in. In some cases, over 40 per cent of the catches are hermaphrodites. A higher incidence of male sterility in humans has also been noted in the same region.

An estimated three million women who live near the river regularly take the pill, which means up to 800 million pills a year ultimately pass into the river and end up in the drinking water.

Waterworks officials respond that a man would have to drink an Olympic sized swimming pool to get enough of the estrogen to be affected. The fact is, no one knows what effects exposure to small but persistent amounts of estrogen analogs will have.

Danish endocrinologist, Niels Skakkebaek, reported in 1991 that sperm counts in men in 21 countries including the US have dropped an average of 50 per cent since 1938.

Over the same period, testicular cancer has tripled. Skakkebaek speculates that the observed changes result from exposure of males to estrogen-like compounds while fetuses or as infants from mother's milk.

Even more alarming are other molecules that behave as analogs and which are equally ubiquitous. They include pesticides such as DDT (which continues to be sold in vast quantities to poor countries like Brazil), PCBs, polycarbonate plastic (found in many products such as baby bottles and water jugs) and organochlorine derivatives from bleaching paper.

Accumulating circumstantial evidence hints that estrogen analogs all about us are affecting our reproductive systems. The International Joint Commission on the Great Lakes has reported increased numbers of hermaphrodites in fish and the birds that eat them and recently speculated that PCBs and DDT in Lake Ontario may be causing increased incidences of small penis size and undescended testes in boys.

Seventy years ago, only 21 cases of endometriosis, a painful inflammation of the uterine lining, were reported in the entire world, but today five million women in the US alone have the problem.

Accidental spills of pesticides have affected the sex organs of wildlife while exposures of pregnant women to estrogen analogs have affected the sex organs of their sons. There are even suggestive correlations of greater incidence of breast cancer in women whose tissues have higher levels of pesticide products. Our insights into the marvellous ways that our cells function allow us to exploit this knowledge for human benefit. But such knowledge should also make us more aware that in our chemical-laden surroundings, increasing aberrations in other creatures may well be a canary's warning to us.

New rules govern municipal political accountability

The Ontario government is moving ahead with legislation to make local governments more open and accountable to the people they serve.

The government is introducing these changes to strengthen municipal accountability as it prepares to give municipalities more control over land-use planning. The new legislation, introduced May 18, covers three main areas.

Firstly, it tightens the rules about when municipal council meetings can be closed to the public. All meetings will have to be open unless certain issues - such as buying property, personnel matters or court actions - are being discussed. All voting and decision-making will have to take place in the open.

This change responds to concerns raised frequently by members of the public and the media in both rural and urban Ontario about the public's ability to scrutinize the municipal decision-making process.

Secondly, the new legislation requires municipalities to adopt strict rules on how they dispose of surplus municipal property.

And third, it updates the law on conflict of interest. The new rules clarify and simplify what is now a complicated area of law. This will allow more people to serve their communities without fear of accidentally breaking the law.

One major change in this area is a requirement that local elected officials disclose certain personal financial information.

When they are elected, and once a year after that, local politicians will have to say where their income comes from. They will have to report ownership, but not the value, of their principal residence and other real property holdings, interests and businesses, and certain stocks and bonds.

They will also have to report any liabilities that relate to those assets, such as a mortgage on their home or farm. This annual disclosure exercise will not only increase public trust in their elected representatives, it will also remind the elected representatives of the need to be mindful of possible conflicts, and help them avoid inadvertently doing anything illegal.

Local elected representatives will not have to disclose the value of the assets or the amount of their income, nor will they have to provide a detailed list of clients or suppliers if they are in business.

A politician who makes a living as a farmer, for example, would have to declare only that the income came from farming. There would be no need to list major buyers or the volume of his or her business with them.

Another change is the establishment of a Local Disclosure Commission, which will eliminate the need to undertake costly court proceedings if citizens believed a local politician had acted improperly.

The commission would review such allegations, investigate, and take the matter to court when appropriate. Private citizens would continue to be able to pursue the matter through the courts if they disagreed with the commission's findings.

The commission would reduce the likelihood of frivolous or unfounded allegations reaching the courts, as would a requirement that people pay a fee to make a complaint, and the establishment of time limits for making such complaints.

My Exam Prayer

Now I lay me down to study
I pray the Lord I won't go nutty
If I should fail to learn this junk
I Pray the Lord I will not flunk
But if I do, don't shed a tear,
Just put a rose behind my ear.
Tell my teacher I did my best
Then pile my books upon my chest.
If I should die before I wake
That's one less test I'll have to take!
A suffering student
Who tried her best.

The above poem which is appropriate for this time of year, was submitted by a new resident at Hyland Crest, Mrs Edith Luke.

IN MEMORIAM

PROCENKO, Michael - In loving memory of our dear son and brother, taken from us suddenly June 23, 1978. Though his smile is gone forever And his hand we cannot touch, We have so many memories Of the one we loved so much. His memory is our keepsake With which we'll never part God has him in His keeping We have him in our hearts. As time goes on without him And days turn into years We hold a million memories And a thousand silent tears. Loved and dearly missed by Mom, Dad and Lisa.

PROCENKO, Michael - In memory of a dear wee friend and neighbour lost to us June 23, 1978. Sunshine fades and shadows fall, But sweet remembrance outlasts all. The Beers Family.

ANNUAL REPORT of THE MINDEN HOSPITAL BUILDING FUND

The Minden Hospital Building Fund was established by the Rotary Club of Minden in 1988 to provide a mechanism for those wishing to set aside funds for the replacement of the present Minden Hospital. All monies contributed to the fund are placed in a special account. The rules governing this account allow for the money to be withdrawn only to assist in the replacement of the present hospital or for the purpose of providing for the growth and expansion of the facilities of the existing Minden Hospital.

The Rotary Club of Minden has agreed to underwrite the cost of operating this special fund and ensure ongoing management of the dollars entrusted to the fund. Six trustees, three Rotarians and three members of the community, have been appointed to oversee the management of this money.

Over the past year a number of donations have been made to this fund including many memorial donations, Nashville North operating as Cowboys That Care, citizens at large, the Toronto Dominion Bank and the Minden Boot Scooters. Anyone wishing to make a donation to be used for the stated purposes of this fund may do so at any time.

As of July 1st, 1993, the fund has received status as a registered charity. Accordingly, official income tax receipts can be issued for your donation if requested.

In establishing this fund, it was decided that an Annual Report would be made available to the community. The following report has been approved by the committee overseeing the fund: Chairman, Brian F. Adamson; Secretary Treasurer, Russ Fair; Trustees, Tara Lowe, Bill Roszell, Bob Beeney and Russ Paul.

This report covers the period from January 1st, 1993 to December 31st, 1993.
